

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO BIDDERS

First Quality Tissue BlueScope Construction

Drawings and specifications are incomplete and should be regarded as conceptual in nature. Information enclosed does not represent complete construction documentation with details of all areas. Final construction drawings and specifications will contain those additional elements of Work that are inherently required in order to make the project as currently depicted in the uncompleted plans and specifications conform to applicable statutes, laws, local codes, and sound engineering and architectural practice. By submitting a bid in response to this invitation, a bidder represents that such bidder has the requisite and sufficient expertise, knowledge, experience and professional understanding of the requirements of their particular scope of work to enable such bidder to anticipate and include in their bid price those additional elements of work included in such bidder's scope of work that are not currently shown or specified but will, in the ordinary course of completing the design of the project, be inherently required in order to furnish a completed project. It is incumbent upon the bidder to understand all documents, request clarifications where required, and then provide a bid for services that is inclusive of all the requirements which will be inherently necessary to complete their scope of work. Unless otherwise expressly excluded from a proposal or bid submitted by bidder, the bid shall be understood to specifically include the additional elements of Work not shown or indicated but inherently necessary in connection with the bidder's scope of work to furnish a completed project.
